

Due Diligence Services

McLellan provides due diligence services for project developers, lenders, investors, plant operators and government agencies to assess the viability of prospective projects.

Our primary goal for due diligence activities is to assess and mitigate technical, commercial, environmental, legal and socio-economic risks associated with a project. In carrying out due diligence work, our highly experienced specialists work alongside client appointed financial, legal and insurance advisers to ensure that the project represents a viable investment.

The due diligence services we provide enhances a client's ability to make business critical decisions and are based on transparent methodology, in-depth sector experience and sound engineering knowledge.
